Truman After Farm Votes; Dewey Pledges UN Support

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 13—President Truman pushed his all-out campaign to capture the nation's farm vote into the upper Great Lakes states today.

The chief executive headed northward toward Superior, Wis., and Duluth, Minn., after a major address here last night.

Mr. Truman outlined a four-point Democratic program of farm benefits in "continuing abundance" in his speech in the Illinois capital.

The President tore into the record of the Republican-controlled 80th Congress. He assailed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey at the same time.

The chief executive branded his opponent as a "tool" of Wall Street. He asserted that Dewey is "lining up with some queer characters," he wants elected to control the new Congress.

HE DECLARED that Abraham Lincoln would wonder at the leaders of the Republican Party today.

Earlier, the President paid homage to the memory of the great emancipator. He made a pilgrimage to Lincoln's Tomb in Springfield and placed a wreath on the memorial sepulchre.

Mr. Truman's reception in the Abraham Lincoln section of Illinois confounded political observers traveling with him.

State Continues To Say Land For Lake 'Paid For'

H. A. (Buck) Rider, state conservation commission chairman, tried Wednesday to explain Pickaway County's memorial lake situation.

Rider's publicity crew Monday had issued a release regarding the 161-acre proposed park declaring the land had been "acquired and paid for."

Tuesday, the nine local landowners were practically up in arms about the statement. The most conservative was a bit peeved.

They claimed the "paid for" angle was false. They have yet to receive the first red cent for their property.

Wednesday's Rider explanation declared that:

"The options have been exercised. The money ($240,000 for the entire project) has been encumbered and released by the state board of control. The abstracts have been submitted to

Columbus Grand Jury To Ponder Localite's Case

Franklin County Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said in Columbus Wednesday he would ask a grand jury to consider possibility of indicting Miss Lillian Weaver, fiancée of an accused slayer, Dwight David Tudor.

The prosecutor said witnesses would be summoned before the jury next Monday to determine whether there is enough evidence to prosecute the Circleville high school graduate on charges of harboring a felon.

Miss Weaver, a former Columbus police record clerk, admitted she helped Tudor burn a blood-stained auto cushion after he told her of killing a 15-year-old Springfield girl. Tudor entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity before Springfield authorities in the slaying of Mary Ann Page on Oct. 2.

Japs Set Crucial Poll

New Cabinet To Be Named

TOKYO, Oct. 13—An extraordinary session of Japan's diet (parliament) is scheduled to vote today for a new premier.

Indications were a one-party rightist cabinet, without majority backing, would assume power.

Former Premier Shigeru Yoshida, head of the Democratic-Liberal Party, was expected to win the prime minister-ship for the second time since the war.

Notwithstanding their party's name, the Democratic-Liberals are ultra-rightists.

Diet members of Japan's other two leading parties, the second-ranking Social Democrats (Socialists) and the Democrats (Conservatives), were expected either to vote against Yoshida or abstain.

The balloting in the diet climaxes Japan's most severe governmental crisis of the postwar period.

Its principal issue is the question of whether Japan's millions of government employees, including railroad and utility workers, are to be excluded from the right to strike and the right to bargain collectively.

While the status of government workers comprises the big issue, it was not that which precipitated the present governmental crisis.

The precipitating factor was a major scandal stemming from government reconstruction bank loans to the Showa Denko fertilizer combine.

In connection with this affair, several prominent members of the Democratic and Social Democratic Parties, including one cabinet minister, have been arrested on suspicion of bribery and corruption.

Ag Officials Fear Farmer Profits To Be Shaved By Costs During '49

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—Mounting farm production costs, already at record levels, are expected today to narrow farmers' net incomes in 1949.

The Agriculture Department made this prediction in an outlook report for next year in which it said producers probably will have to pay larger sums for labor, machinery, fertilizer, seed and other farming essentials.

Record 1948 crops have been produced but at a cost three times the prewar average and on some the profit margin already is narrower than a year ago.

However, up to this point farmers' net returns on their investment of time, labor and cash have risen more rapidly than costs. The reason is twofold:

First, overall output has risen 30 percent since the prewar years; second, prices of most farm products in the market place have skyrocketed.

Here's how the department views the prospects for 1949:

"WITH COSTS for items other than feeds moving upward, and with somewhat lower prices for products sold in 1949, net farm income will be lower for the country as a whole."

Continuing high costs for labor, already between five and ten percent higher than a year ago, are predicted for the remainder of 1948 and 1949.

Machinery manufacturers who still have to catch up with a backlog of orders are expected to continue quoting high prices for their products next year.

Prices last June averaged 15 percent above a year ago and 59 percent above prewar.

As for fertilizer, agriculture officials think prices may go still higher than last Spring when they were already fifty percent above prewar.

Meanwhile in Columbus, experts were sure it will be an all-time record corn crop for Ohio this year—208,499,000 bushels.

With the corn now safely matured past the point where frost might do some damage, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service estimated that the yield per acre will be 16 bushels higher this year than in 1947.

The prediction was 57 bushels per acre in view of the favorable weather conditions in the month of September.

Present stocks of farm corn remaining from last year are estimated at only 5,716,000 bushels, or 36 percent of the entire stocks last fall.

A more normal trend is indicated in wheat this year. Wheat stocks on Ohio's farms are almost the same as they were when the survey was taken last year. Then stocks were listed at 21,177,000 bushels.

The report showed milk production behind last year at this time by six million gallons. Figures showed only 452 million gallons of milk for the month of September.

Egg production was up over last year, soybeans had a slight edge on the 1947 crop of 17,575,000 bushels and oats doubled last year's production figures with a 52,888,000 bushel crop.

Reds Say They Will 'Compromise'

PARIS, Oct. 13—Russia was challenged to lift her iron curtain as proof of disarmament sincerity today and a Soviet spokesman remarked that his country was able to "compromise" with the late President Roosevelt.

Another stormy debate marked the day's sitting of the UN Political and Security Committee. The body finally voted unanimously to create a subcommittee for consideration of all pending disarmament resolutions.

Chief participants in the fresh verbal duel were Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate, and Sir Hartley Shawcross, brilliant British jurist who was a prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes trials.

At one point, when Shawcross upbraided Russia for keeping the World in chaos, Malik said:

"We reached a compromise with Roosevelt but we cannot compromise with Shawcross and his ilk who do not want to disarm and ban the atom bomb."

Shawcross vigorously challenged assertions by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky that the Soviet Union is ready to guarantee there will be evasion of disarmament control.

Vishinsky made this statement yesterday in his "cards on the table" speech.

The British delegate said:

Export Rules Relaxed By Commerce Chiefs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—The Commerce Department made it easier today for exporters to ship iron and steel to almost every country in the world, including Russia and her satellites.

The department, in a sweeping policy revision, abolished regulations which require iron and steel exporters to submit copies of their foreign orders and signed contracts in order to obtain export licenses.

In place of this so-called "documentary evidence," exporters will be required only to state in writing that they have these orders on hand and specify the selling price.

The action does not remove iron and steel from export control. Licenses still will be required for their shipment to the Russian bloc as well as every other country except Canada.

Current exports average only about 420,000 tons a month and represent but a small fraction of this country's total steel and iron output.

Commerce officials also revealed that the department has under consideration the abolition of similar regulations on all other commodities in short supply and under export control.

Herbert Labels 'New Dealer' Foe

TROY, Oct. 13—Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche called for a state administration "uncontrolled by pressure groups or political bosses" on a campaign junket through Western Ohio today.

The Democratic candidate for governor, on a swing through Troy, Piqua, Sidney, Greenville and Celina, stated:

"The people will have to decide on the basis of which candidate is in the best position to serve the greatest number of people, uncontrolled by pressure groups or political bosses. The people will have to decide which of the two candidates has demonstrated by his past conduct that he is able to confront those making unreasonable demands and to say their request cannot be complied with.

"The records of my administration show that freedom from dictation was a foremost principle as were prudence and thrift.

"NOW WE are confronted with a situation in which the state government is spending at the greatest rate in history, with expenditures increased by more than 70 percent over what they were just two years ago."

Meanwhile in Paulding, the tag of "New Dealer" was hung Lausche by his Republican opponent, Gov. Thomas A. Herbert.

The governor, touring the fifth congressional district with other Republican candidates, declared that Lausche has "joined President Truman in a desperate effort to save the dying New Deal."

"Two years ago, Ohio assumed the responsibility of digging out the New Deal at its roots. This was done by electing a

Japs Puzzled In Attempt To Improve Bathing

TOKYO, Oct. 13—Japanese health experts are attacking Japan's traditional, chummy public baths as a source of disease.

The public bathhouse in Japan is the social center of many communities. Men, women and children bathe together in the Japanese baths, often attending in family groups.

A commentator, seeking a solution to the disease problem, said the situation could not be corrected without government aid, pointing out that:

The Western style of bathing would be ideal, but is too costly for Japanese at present.

Water filters would help, but are not available.

Big 3 Sets Deadline

Kremlin To Reply On Berlin Crisis

PARIS, Oct. 13—The Big Three Western Powers today set Monday as the deadline for any new Soviet proposals on the Berlin crisis.

If no new proposals are received from the Kremlin by that time, the U. S., Britain and France will demand UN-Security Council action to end the blockade.

Western sources revealed that the Big Three reluctantly agreed to delay its demand for the council's condemnation of the blockade until Moscow has had opportunity to reply to queries by Argentine Foreign Minister Bramuglia.

Bramuglia, acting president of the Security Council, has sounded out both the West and the Soviets in the effort to obtain a solution to the present deadlock.

The Big Three informed Bramuglia that once a Soviet statement is received, it will be considered immediately. The West has indicated that Moscow will not be permitted to resume again the "merry-go-round" of earlier Kremlin and Berlin talks as long as the blockade is in effect.

A Western spokesman said that there has been no change in the Big Three position that the blockade must be lifted in advance of renewed Big Four talks on Germany. The spokesman added:

"We have no choice but to wait and see what Bramuglia produces since the Security Council's smaller powers have chosen to proceed along the line of sounding out the Russians once more."

lined the streets and cheered the President as he rode through Springfield.

The auditorium where he delivered his address last night was jammed to capacity. The following farm program was outlined by Mr. Truman:

1. A permanent flexible price support program.
2. Expansion of the soil conservation program "to stop waste of our agricultural resources."
3. Continued and strengthened programs to assure adequate markets for bumper crops.
4. Protection of farmers' rights to do business through cooperatives, extension of rural electrification and better housing, better roads and better educational facilities for farmers.

The chief executive charged that the farm price support program already has been blown up by the 80th Congress by its restriction of the right of the Commodity Credit Corp. to provide storage bins for surplus grains.

Meanwhile, Dewey declared that an America strong at home and abroad is "a stark, grim necessity" in a world threatened by "aggressive forces."

In a speech in Oklahoma City, the Republican presidential candidate hit again at the Truman administration's handling of the Berlin crisis. He promised to

Million More Grade Teachers Claimed Needed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 —The National Education Association said today that unless one million new elementary school teachers are found by 1958, 26.5 million children are "doomed" to subnormal education.

The association's commission on teacher education declared that in the next 10 years the U. S. must turn out five times more school teachers than are being graduated at present.

Only by such a method, the commission insisted, could the school systems insure proper educational standards for the first six grades of school in the next decade.

It was estimated that at the present rate of graduations, only one-fifth of the number of school teachers essential for the work will be available, leaving the country 800,000 teachers short. The 11-man commission stated: "The most critical need is for elementary teachers qualified to provide education of children in the crucial ages from six through 13, when expert teaching is absolutely essential to the child's success in life."

available. "Six, let us exchange broadcasts. "Seven, let our tourists travel to each others' countries and become friends. "Eight, let us exchange university students."

The exchange between Shawcross and Malik, who sat in for Vishinsky, closed general discussion and debate in the UN Political Committee.

The committee adjourned until late this afternoon when it will decide the priority and voting of various resolutions.

Shawcross laid full blame on the policies of the Soviet Union for current international turmoil. He declared:

"One little word from Russia would silence Communist fifth columns everywhere and let nations put their houses in order. He declared sharply that if the big powers do not agree on peace 'the world will not forgive a handful of men, the despotic rulers of one state at whose doors responsibility lies.'"

MALIK SAID he regretted that Vishinsky "who has been attacked with such fury is not present to answer this torrent of lies and slander."

This charge was leveled by Zygmont Modzelewski during debate on Russia's resolution calling on the Big Five powers to slash armaments one-third in one year.

The Polish foreign minister asserted that U. S. Delegate Warren Austin in his statement yesterday expressed the "opinion of traitors who fled Poland, sometimes with the assistance of your American representatives there."

Shawcross cited Austin's plea for Soviet conciliation to heal the East-West rift and denounced Vishinsky for giving a hollow reply.

Lewis Confuses His Miners

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—The 400,000 United Mine Workers in the nation were a bit confused today as John L. Lewis closed their 40th annual convention with a jab at the Republican presidential candidate, Thomas E. Dewey.

For more than a week the 3,000 delegates here had listened to their bushy-browed and belligerent chief blast at President Truman. Then, despite earlier adoption of a resolution indirectly endorsing Dewey, Lewis closed the convocation by cracking at the New York governor.

Lewis referred to Dewey as "some politician" who had spoken recently in favor of the Taft-Hartley law and drew laughter and applause from his audience when he asserted:

"That man just never read the act."

Dewey had endorsed the act Monday night in Pittsburgh as preserving labor's right to band together.

Mills Circus Case Delayed Third Time

A decision in the Mills Brothers Circus case was further postponed Tuesday in Columbus municipal court when Nov. 30 was set as the date for answer briefs by City Attorney Walter Brelly Jr.

Brelly asked the court to allow further time for the preparation of a brief answering the arguments of Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, defense attorney for the Mills Brothers.

Herbert submitted a brief the day before the case was slated to come before the court last Sept. 22. At that time Brelly requested an extension to give him an opportunity to look over the defense arguments. This was the third postponement.

The case involves a suit by the city of Columbus charging the Mills Brothers Circus with operating circus trucks in Columbus while bearing Missouri license plates.

The circus wintered at Pickaway Fairgrounds last year, may seek to return here depending on the outcome of this case.

Three other Denverites have been imprisoned on civil contempt charges growing out of their refusal to answer questions put to them by a federal grand jury.

Driver Prides His Car, Lands In City Jail

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Cleveland police believe a man has the right to take pride in the appearance of his car, but they also think a 30-year-old driver went just a little too far.

That's why the motorist today faces charges of pointing firearms, failure to make a boulevard stop and failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian.

According to police, the driver brushed the clothing of Mrs. Elizabeth Frierson, 27, with his car while making a sharp turn. When the driver reportedly pulled out a rifle and pointed it at Mrs. Frierson, a policeman who had witnessed the incident intervened and demanded:

"What are you going to do?" "Shoot her," the man replied, according to the policeman. "She scratched my car."

French Labor Scene Brightens

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The turbulent French labor scene brightened today with a back-to-work movement that restored almost normal railway service and brought in sight an end to the metallurgical strike.

But some dark spots still remained, Communist-led coal miners in the north stayed out of the pits for the tenth day, and dockers at Cherbourg and Le Havre launched a 24-hour protest strike. Additional rail strikes loomed at Lyon and Dijon, in Central France. Railroad workers in most parts of the nation returned to their jobs.

In Lorraine, where 35,000 metallurgical workers were still out, an offer of a 10 percent wage increase plus 5,000 francs (about $17) held out hope for a quick settlement.

Bevin Opposes Teardown Delay

LONDON, Oct. 13.—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin reportedly opposed plans by ERP Administrator Paul G. Hoffman today to delay dismantling of German plants for reparations.

Hoffman, who favors modification of the whole German reparations program in order to speed German economic recovery, met with Bevin at the foreign office.

He was reportedly told by Bevin that Britain favors quick dismantling of those plants already ear-marked for reparations. A similar position was taken by France yesterday.

Great Days Ahead, Promise

CANTON, Oct. 13.—Henry A. Wallace, if elected President, will "make this the century of the common man."

That was the belief expressed here last night at Stark County's first Progressive Party rally by Dr. Oliver Loud, an atomic scientist who worked on the Manhattan Project until September of 1945.

Dr. Loud, now a professor of physics at Antioch college in Yellow Spring, declared that the "Republicans are backed by the National Association of Manufacturers and the Democrats by the company-union clique and the vested interests."

Jackson Curfew To Ring Tonight

Republican state administration and a Republican Congress.

"Now, once again, the issue in Ohio is unmistakably clear. My opponent has tossed his so-called independence aside and has gone all-out in endorsing President Truman.

"Thus the issue becomes sharply drawn. President Truman has embraced the New Deal and my opponent has embraced Truman. At long last he has publicly declared that he is part and parcel of the New Deal."

Three Guilty In Columbus' Ritz Robbery

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—The Ritz Club robbery case was at a close today. Three members of the accused quartet remained behind bars for sentencing while the fourth was freed.

The jury—10 men and two women—returned their verdict late yesterday evening.

Three counts of armed robbery—each count bearing a 10 to 25 year penalty—were returned against three of the accused.

The jury decided, however, that 37-year-old Walter Flory of Cincinnati's suburban Elmwood Place, was guilty.

Held in county jail awaiting sentence were: 38-year-old Howard "Ace" Bowman, no permanent address; 61-year-old George "Red" McGahan and 38-year-old William L. Green, both of Toledo.

Flory, who was represented by Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert as defense attorney, testified that he was at his brother's Cincinnati home when the race horse booking establishment outside Columbus was held up.

"Six, let us exchange broad casts."

"Seven, let our tourists travel to each others' countries and become friends."

"Eight, let us exchange university students."

The exchange between Shawcross and Malik, who sat in for Vishinsky, closed general disarmament debate in the UN Political Committee.

The committee adjourned until late this afternoon when it will decide the priority and voting of various resolutions.

Shawcross laid full blame on the policies of the Soviet Union for current international turmoil. He declared:

"One little word from Russia would silence Communist fifth columns everywhere and let nations put their houses in order."

He declared sharply that if the big powers do not agree on peace "the world will not forgive a handful of men, the despotic rulers of one state at whose doors responsibility lies."

MALIK SAID he regretted that Vishinsky "who has been attacked with such fury is not present to answer this torrent of lies and slander."

The British barrister spoke to the political committee after Poland's delegate accused the United States of voicing the "opinion of traitors" by condemning Soviet dismemberment of Poland.

This charge was levelled by Zygmunt Modzelewski during debate on Russia's resolution calling on the Big Five powers to slash armaments one-third in one year.

The Polish foreign minister asserted that U. S. Delegate Warren Austin in his statement yesterday expressed the "opinion of traitors who fled Poland, sometimes with the assistance of our American representatives there."

Shawcross cited Austin's plea for Soviet conciliation to heal the East-West rift and denounced Vishinsky for giving a hollow reply.

He cited the recent charge of French Interior Minister Jules Moch that the Communist Information Bureau had ordered Communists to scuttle the Marshall Plan even if international tension appeared to be diminishing.

Lewis Confuses His Miners

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13—The 400,000 United Mine Workers in the nation were a bit confused today as John L. Lewis closed their 40th annual convention with a jab at the Republican presidential candidate, Thomas E. Dewey.

For more than a week the 3,000 delegates here had listened to their bushy-browed and belligerent chief blast at President Truman. Then, despite earlier adoption of a resolution indirectly endorsing Dewey, Lewis closed the conclave by cracking at the New York governor.

Lewis referred to Dewey as "some politician" who had spoken recently in favor of the Taft-Hartley law and drew laughter and applause from his audience when he asserted:

"That man just never read the act."

Dewey had endorsed the act Monday night in Pittsburgh as preserving labor's right to hand together.

Births Still More Than Deaths

County, City Board Report

Number of Pickaway County deaths remained constant during September according to tabulations of city and county health boards, but number of births decreased a total of two compared to the previous month.

A total of 54 births were recorded in the county during last month, a loss of two as compared to the 56 recorded in August. Number of county deaths totalled 16 for both months.

Number of girls born during September tallied two more than boys, 28 female births recorded while only 26 male births were registered.

Most outstanding along with the birth statistics was the fact no stillbirths were recorded during the period, the first time the figure has been absent for a number of months.

BOTH CITY and county health boards reported eight such deaths each during August, total figures showing eight deaths in each sex.

Two youngest deaths were reported in Circleville, one newborn baby dying 45 minutes following birth and the other at 19 days of age.

Age range of deaths for the county as a whole, excluding the two newly born, follows: one in the 6-10-year-old group; one in the 11-15-year-old group; one in the 16-20-year-old group; three in the 21-25-year-old group; five in the 26-30-year-old group; and three in the 31-35-year-old group.

Florida Escapee Wins Ohio Delay

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13—Fred M. Fox, 21-year-old Florida prison camp fugitive, had won a delay today in his fight to escape extradition from Ohio.
Robert Ratchford, executive secretary to Gov. Herbert, said the governor had ordered Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins to investigate Fox's charges of

"cruel and inhuman treatment at the camp."
Fox threatened in a hearing yesterday to commit suicide if he is sent back to what he termed a "chain gang."

The 82nd Airborne Division veteran was sentenced to ten years imprisonment for a $40 tourist camp robbery. He had served 18 months of his sentence when he escaped in June.

Births Still More Than Deaths

County, City
Board Report

Number of Pickaway County deaths remained constant during September according to tabulations of city and county health boards, but number of births decreased a total of two compared to the previous month.

A total of 54 births were recorded in the county during last month, a loss of two as compared to the 56 recorded in August. Number of county deaths totalled 16 for both months.

Number of girls born during September tallied two more than boys, 28 female births recorded while only 26 male births were registered.

Most outstanding along with the birth statistics was the fact no stillbirths were recorded during the period, the first time the figure has been absent for a number of months.

BOTH CITY and county health boards reported eight such deaths each during August, total figures showing eight deaths in each sex.

Two youngest deaths were reported in Circleville, one newborn baby dying 45 minutes following birth and the other at 19 days of age.

Age range of deaths for the county as a whole, excluding the two newly born, follows: one in the 8-10-year-old group; one in the 31-40-year-old group; one in the 51-60-year-old group; three in the 61-70-year-old group; five in the 71-80-year-old group; and three in the 81-90-year-old group.

Florida Escapee Wins Ohio Delay

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13—Fred M. Fox, 21-year-old Florida prison camp fugitive, had won a delay today in his fight to escape extradition from Ohio.

Robert Ratchford, executive secretary to Gov. Herbert, said the governor had ordered Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins to investigate Fox's charges of

"cruel and inhuman treatment at the camp.

Fox threatened to commit suicide if he is sent back to what he termed a "chain gang."

The 82nd Airborne Division veteran was sentenced to ten years imprisonment for a $40 tourist camp robbery. He had served 18 months of his sentence when he escaped in June.

Fog is cloud at ground level.

General Lauds Fighter Group

The 332d Fighter Group of Lockbourne Air Force Base was reported as "outstandingly good" in its performance during the opening stages of the "Operations Combine III" maneuvers in Florida by the commanding general of the 9th Air Force, Maj. Gen. William D. Old, who, serving as director of the "war games" was highly elated over the demonstrations he witnessed during the course of the maneuvers.

The group pilots fly on various missions every day in the spirited fulfillment of their part in the war games now raging across the Florida wasteland.

The group is comprised of three fighter squadrons: The 99th, commanded by Capt. Marion R. Rodgers of Elizabeth, N. J.; the 100th, commanded by Capt. Ralph D. Elsberry of Langston, Okla.; and the 301st, commanded by Capt. Richard C. Pullam of Kansas City.

In his conference with Col. B. O. Davis Jr., commanding officer of Lockbourne Air Force Base, the 9th Air Force commanding general commended the group on its dive bombing, rocket firing and strafing.

Moscow Rips Churchill Again

LONDON, Oct. 13—The Moscow radio asserted today that wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech at Llandudno Saturday was full of "blood-thirstiness."

Churchill said that the U. S. must retain its atom bomb monopoly in order to prevent the Soviets from conquering the world.

The broadcast again dubbed Churchill "Warmonger No. 1" and added that the speech exposed the "real meaning" of Western policy in the United Nations as based on "atom bomb morality."

Reds Promise Nod To Korea

MOSCOW, Oct. 13—The Soviet government promised recognition today to the North Korean republic sponsored by the Kremlin.

Thurmond Wants Truman Debate On Civil Rights

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 13—South Carolina Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, States' Rights presidential candidate, renewed his challenge today to President Truman for a debate on the Civil Rights Bill.

Thurmond offered to meet the chief executive on the question in "South Carolina, Virginia, the presidents home state of Missouri or on the Capitol steps."

The governor denied in a Lexington address that he and the states righters had bolted the Democratic party. He charged: "Truman and his gang are the ones who have bolted."

Thurmond told his audience last night, less than 12 hours after Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential candidate, had spoken in Lexington, that the GOP "will not carry a single southern state."

The States' Rights nominee asserted that "a huge number of southerners would have voted for Dewey out of opposition to Truman if his party had not entered the field. He declared:

"Those votes are coming to us now, where they can accomplish something. The South can not gain a thing by voting for Gov. Dewey."

and possible Communist pipelines from Alaska to west coast cities.

Rep. Charles J. Kersten, (R) Wis., chairman of the subcommittee, said the Russian situation "was a factor in the investigation" but declined to comment on whether the investigation was asked by the U. S. armed forces.

SOMETHING NEW IN BOMBS

FASCINATING fields are opened to the imagination by the revelation that the Air Force has developed a bomb which can single out a target on the ground or water below and steer to it. Errorless bombing of such small, moving targets as ships at sea, from heights beyond the reach of anti-aircraft artillery, can be envisioned.

It is a chilling fact that the Air Force showed the bomb in a public exhibition, and described the principle on which it works. Plainly it is assumed that other nations, including any which might be potential future enemies of this country, also know how to make such bombs.

On the optimistic side, an accurate "homing" bomb would make bombing attack in warfare more efficient but not necessarily more terrible, perhaps even less terrible. A shocking feature of the military tactics of the last war was the wholesale killing and injury of civilians and destruction of non-military property, far from the scenes of what used to be regarded as military operations. This was an inevitable result of the use of mass bombing against cities. The homing bomb would not automatically rule out mass bombing, but would reduce the possibility of justifying it.

Blood Vessel Disorder That May Plague Elderly People

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PEOPLE of advanced age are quite likely to be plagued by disturbances of the circulation, particularly of that to the legs. Among the most common disorders are those which result from spasm of the arteries or hardening of these important blood vessels. In either of these disorders pain—often of an agonizing nature—is the chief symptom.

Recently a worth-while treatment for relief of pain in such cases has been developed. It is apparently successful because not only does it relieve the pain, but reaches the very root of the trouble—the diminished blood supply.

There is a substance known as histamine which normally may be present in the body in small amounts, and may produce dilation or widening of small blood vessels.

Another Substance

It has been found that another substance called histidine—one of the amino acids that make up proteins—will, in contact with ascorbic acid or vitamin C, form histamine. Hence, this mixture has been used in treating patients with blood vessel disorders.

In carrying out the treatment, a solution of the histidine and the ascorbic acid is mixed in a syringe. Then the mixture is injected very slowly into a vein.

Twenty patients were treated with this preparation. Four of the patients had gangrene or death of the tissues due to insufficient blood supply.

supply. The others had severe pain either when lying down or after walking. Of the 20 patients, 18 showed great improvement. Some of the patients had been given narcotic drugs to relieve the pain, but after treatment with the histidine-ascorbic mixture, it was found possible to reduce the dose or to eliminate the narcotics.

Twice Daily

If necessary, the injections may be given twice daily, but usually one treatment each day is sufficient. When the pain disappears, the treatments are stopped. About 20 treatments are administered ordinarily.

A large number of such injections have been given without causing any reactions, or inconvenience. The treatment also has an advantage in that it can be employed while the patient is up and about his normal activities.

Before this type of treatment is carried out, of course, the patient must be carefully studied to determine the exact type of disorder present and the physician will decide, in each instance, whether or not this new treatment may be of value.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

GAIL SAID gravely, "I'm very happy, Pat."

"Look," Pat's upturned face was very serious, "be sure, be awfully sure . . ."

"I am sure. Brad's a wonderful person," said Gail gently, "and I don't deserve him."

"Sometimes I feel that way about Bill," said Pat, "but at others I know very well he doesn't deserve me. What about Sam?" she asked hurriedly.

"What about him?"

"Nothing. I won't stick my neck out. Only, if it's out of . . . of spite or anything . . ."

"It isn't." Well, thought Gail, angry with herself, you have some pride, haven't you? You can't let people go around thinking Sam has just taken out without so much as by your leave so you've taken Brad as solace. A lot of people would hoot at that; some solace, they'd say. She said aloud, "Sam asked me to marry him, Pat."

"You turned Sam down?"

"That's right."

Pat got up. She shook her head, and then patted Gail's cheek. She said, "I like Brad fine, the little I know him."

She thinks, Gail told herself, that I still love Sam and that I'm marrying Brad for money.

Well, wasn't she? she asked herself coldly. Money, security, and a sober happiness.

Dinner at Mrs. Spencer's was one of those things that went on and on. There were three cousins, two female and one male, but almost indistinguishable one from the other, save in a matter of dress. They were all drab and daisied. They ate an enormous amount for people so painfully thin. Millicent also was at dinner, in her best plum-colored crepe, with the Jensen brooch and bracelet Brad had given her elaborately displayed. She did not display Mrs. Spencer's practical gifts, the warm underwear, stout stockings, wholesome sweater coat, and very substantial check. She drew Gail aside before dinner, to shake her hand and to say, quavering, "I am very happy for you." But Millicent had been crying. Her eyelids were faintly pink, and her rabbit little nose.

Mrs. Spencer made the announcement during the dessert course . . . plum pudding and a mammoth snowball of ice cream, laced with fruit and brandy. She laced, small and erect, in a black velvet frock, Brad's orchids, little, rosy stars, pinned to her shoulder, and lifted her wine glass. She said, "We must drink to Gail and Bradford's mutual happiness."

The cousins were astonished. Eva, the widowed one, wept; Florence, the spinster sister, was seized with a fit of choking; Junius, the male, marched stiffly to Gail's place and unprinted a chaste salute upon her cheek. None was disturbed, albeit curious and, in their mummified way, excited; for none stood to lose nor gain, whomever Gail married.

She did not add, because doubtless Bradford would break the news to Gail, if she became his wife, that the pearls now in the bank would be hers. Those were entailed. They were Alexandra's only until her grandson married. They were extremely well known, and every so often a healthy young woman was escorted to the bank as to the Minotaur, to sit, well.

their remote relative married.

It was painful, but bearable.

The cousins departed, in Alexandra's car, somewhat before nine o'clock. Now it was time that the domestic staff be officially apprised of the change in the family situation. Each had been with Alexandra for a long time; Andrews and Cora, his wife, who cooked; Sarah, Alexandra's personal maid; Gertrude, the parlor maid, and her sister, Harriet, who officiated upstairs. These were on duty, Christmas as on other holidays, as was Pompton, the chauffeur. He, together with the laundress and the kitchenmaid . . .

They were lovely things, garnets and jet, onyx and pearls, rose diamonds, emeralds, sapphires, and most of them were in sets. Mrs. Spencer looked at them for a moment. No. They would be wasted on this girl. She kept the fabulous pearls in the safe deposit, the diamond necklace and other heavily insured jewelry, which she rarely wore. She looked in a little compartment and said, annoyed, "But this is not the right box, after all, Millicent."

Millicent fluttered and Brad compressed his lips. He could read his grandmother's mind, crystal clear. Not for Gail the lockets and twin bracelets, the necklace and rings which were dear to Alexandra's heart, although she did not wear them.

Millicent, convinced that she had been unjustly reprimanded, toiled upstairs and returned with another jewel case. Halfway down, the reason dawned upon her too, and she was suddenly and quite pleased about the whole thing though the subtlety was, of course, wasted upon Miss Rogers.

This case contained pins, rings, a number of bracelets, and the everyday pearls. Carefully Mrs. Spencer selected a bracelet of alternating diamonds and emeralds which her husband had given her one Christmas, and clasped it on Gail's wrist. She said, "It matches your pretty ring, my dear."

She did not add, because doubtless Bradford would break the news to Gail, if she became his wife, that the pearls now in the bank would be hers. Those were entailed. They were Alexandra's only until her grandson married. They were extremely well known, and every so often a healthy young woman was escorted to the bank as to the Minotaur, to sit, well.

FASCINATING fields are opened to the imagination by the revelation that the Air Force has developed a bomb which can single out a target on the ground or water below and steer to it. NEW YORK—On more than one occasion in my misspent youth, a variation of osmosis enabled me to inhale one beer beyond my meager capacity, while entrenched in the 17th street cellar that is Joe King's.

From Nassau Hall in Princeton to the Harvard Yard in Cambridge, Joe King's is celebrated in story and song—but not as Joe King's. One upon a time it passed under the name German-American A. C., a title which undergraduates long ago seized upon gleefully and dismantled into the pithier, mystic "G. A."

As I recall, it was either just before or during the recent war that the management regretfully junked the original name in favor of Joe King's, for obvious reasons, but no effect on Joe College, who continued to refer to the G. A.

What I started to say when I began this column is that under the numbing influence of the final G. A. lager that broke the camel's back, I frequently arose to my feet and sang The Grim Gray Palisades in a grave baritone.

This was in honor of a few depressing months I spent in attendance at New York university, which claims that mournful dirge for its very own.

The only reason I brought up the whole thing is that all the while I was keening this dismal cantata, I would be thinking of Columbia university, which is where I wanted to matriculate in the first place and about which I thought I would write a column today.

However, I got to thinking more and more about life in the G. A.—and so it is, with unparalleled skill at backing into a subject, about that quaint saloon that I would like to talk this evening.

Twice Daily
If necessary, the injections may be given twice daily, but usually one treatment each day is sufficient. When the pain disappears, the treatments are stopped. About 20 treatments are administered ordinarily.

A large number of such injections have been given without causing any reactions, or inconvenience. The treatment also has an advantage in that it can be employed while the patient is up and about his normal activities.

Before this type of treatment is carried out, of course, the patient must be carefully studied to determine the exact type of disorder present and the physician will decide, in each instance, whether or not this new treatment may be of value.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
J. N.: I am nineteen years old and have a bad complexion. I have pimples and blackheads. What could be done about this?

Answer: I have outlined some suggestions concerning pimples and blackheads and shall be glad to send them to you if you will write again, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

GAIL SAID gravely, "I'm very happy, Pat."

"Look," Pat's upturned face was very serious, "be sure, be awfully sure..."

"I am sure. Brad's a wonderful person," said Gail gently, "and I don't deserve him."

"Sometimes I feel that way about Bill," said Pat, "but at others I know very well he doesn't deserve me! What about Sam?" she asked hurriedly.

"What about him?"

"Nothing. I won't stick my neck out. Anyhow, it's out of... of spite or anything..."

"It isn't!" Well, thought Gail, angry with herself, you have some pride, haven't you? You can't let people go around thinking Sam has just taken off without so much as by your leave so you've taken Brad as solace. A lot of people would hoot at that; some solace, they'd say. She said aloud, "Sam asked me to marry him, Pat."

"You turned Sam down?"

"That's right."

Pat got up. She shook her head, and then patted Gail's cheek. She said, "I like Brad fine, the little I know him."

She thinks, Gail told herself, that I still love Sam and that I'm marrying Brad for money.

Well, wasn't she? she asked herself coldly. Money, security, and a sober happiness.

Dinner at Mrs. Spencer's was one of those things that went on and on. There were three cousins, two female and one male, but almost indistinguishable one from the other, save in a matter of dress. They were all drab and desiccated.

They ate an enormous amount for people so painfully thin. Millicent also was at dinner, in her best plum-colored crepe, with the Jensen brooch and bracelet Brad had given her elaborately displayed.

She did not display Mrs. Spencer's practical gifts, the warm underwear, stout stockings, wholesome sweater coat, and very substantial check. She drew Gail aside before dinner, to shake her hand and to say, quavering, "I am very happy for you."

But Millicent had been crying. Her eyelids were faintly pink, and her rabbit little nose.

Mrs. Spencer made the announcement during the dessert course... plum pudding and a mammoth snowball of ice cream, laced with fruit and brandy. She rose, small and erect, in a black velvet frock, Brad's orchid, little, rosy stars, pinned to her shoulder, and lifted her wine glass. She said, "We must drink to Gail and Brad's mutual happiness."

The cousins were astonished. Eva, the widowed one, wept; Florence, the spinster sister, was seized with a fit of choking; Junius, the rule, marched stiffly to Gail's place and imprinted a chaste salute upon her cheek. None was disturbed, albeit curious and, in their hurried way, excited; for none stood to lose nor gain, whomsoever to the Minotaur, to sit, well.

their remote relative married.

It was painful, but bearable.

The cousins departed, in Alexandria's car, somewhat before nine o'clock. Now it was time that the domestic staff be officially apprised of the change in the family situation. Each had been with Alexandria for a long time; Andrews and Cora, his wife, who cooked; Sarah, Alexandria's personal maid; Gertrude, the parlor maid, and her sister, Harriet, who officiated upstairs. These were on duty, Christmas as on other holidays, as was Pompton, the chauffeur. He, together with the laundress and the kitchenmaid...

Then they sat in the drawing room and Alexandria sent Millicent upstairs to the safe to fetch a small jewelry case. When Millicent, sniffing, brought it, Alexandria opened it. She said, "These are not intrinsically very valuable, but they have sentimental association..."

... some of these pieces were my mother's, some were her mother's, and some were my great-grandmother's."

They were lovely things, garnets and jet, onyx and pearls, rose diamonds, emeralds, sapphires, and most of them were in sets. Mrs. Spencer looked at them for a moment. No. They would be wasted on this girl. She kept the fabulous pearls in the safe deposit, the diamond necklace and other heavily insured jewelry, which she rarely wore. She looked in a little compartment and said, annoyed, "But this is not the right box, after all, Millicent."

Millicent fluttered and Brad compressed his lips. He could read his grandmother's mind, crystal clear. Not for Gail the lockets and twin bracelets, the necklace and rings which were dear to Alexandria's heart, although she did not wear them.

Millicent, convinced that she had been unjustly reprimanded, toiled upstairs and returned with another jewelry case. Halfway down, the reason dawned upon her too, and she was suddenly quite pleased about the whole thing though the subtlety was, of course, wasted upon Miss Rogers.

This case contained pins, rings, a number of bracelets, and the everyday pearls. Carefully Mrs. Spencer selected a bracelet of alternating diamonds and emeralds which her husband had given her one Christmas, and clasped it on Gail's wrist. She said, "It matches your pretty ring, dear."

She did not add, because doubtless Bradford would break the news to Gail, if she became his wife, that the pearls now in the bank would be hers. Those were entailed. They were Alexandria's only until her grandson married. They were extremely well known, and every so often a healthy young woman was escorted to the bank as to the Minotaur, to sit, well.

guarded, with the pearls around her bare throat so that they would not lose their glowing life and color.

It was quite an evening.

They were married before the end of January, despite Alexandria's remark that she considered a long engagement sensible. "But," said Brad, "we are getting no younger; that is, I'm not—Gail of course will always be about six. And what are we waiting for anyway?"

The announcement went to the press, suitably worded, and the plans for the wedding were made. Gail made them. It was her wedding. She wished, she said, to be married in the small neighborhood church which she sometimes attended, and where she had found the clergyman very friendly. She discussed this with Alexandria and Brad shortly after the New Year.

"I'm not quite a heathen," she said, smiling, "although I admit I sometimes oversleep on Sundays."

Alexandria said briskly, "But I hoped you would permit me to give you your wedding, Gail."

"A wedding," said Gail, "is the concern of the bride's parents or, if she has none, of her relatives and, failing relatives, of herself."

Alexandria was in two minds, a unique situation and confusing. She had accepted the unfortunate situation, she hoped, gracefully. She had told the tearful and twittering Millicent that there was nothing she could do about it. Her curious friends, dancing on the doorstep, were received with cordiality and China tea, but little information. Her intimates, venturing to inquire, did dear Alexandria approve? were informed that, naturally, she approved, why should she not?

The columnists had something of a nine-hour wonder and those who dined with the social news, in a cozy fashion, dipped their pens in their hearts' blood and wrote feelingly of the beautiful young model and her happy millionaire. It was usual, and Gail, who had been living in a world built up by publicity, sought and sought, for some time, accepted it as a matter of course. Evie wired from the coast, "for heaven's sake exclaimation point" and then telephoned upon the promise of her first contract. She asked, "Who's standing up with you as the phrase goes... silly, isn't it? You don't expect prone attendants or is it suppose?"

"Fat," said Gail, "and, if you'll come, you."

"Darling, I can't, I am having the works... getting myself a figure, speech lessons, all the rest. But why don't you and Brad come on out after you're married?"

Gail said sincerely that she would like nothing better. But she was leaving the wedding trip to Brad and somehow she could not quite see him as the happy bridegroom in Hollywood.

"I can truthfully say Rennel is wonderful," writes Phrona Marlowe, 823 Broadway, Portsmouth, Ohio. "I am 48 years of age, and since using Rennel I have lost 57 pounds. My dress size has changed from 32 to 22. All my friends tell me how wonderful I look in my new clothes and how it has improved my figure. Many thanks to Rennel."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Try Rennel and notice the admiring looks you will receive from your friends as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Just go to your drugstore and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on the genuine Rennel.

Flanders Warns Of Deflation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—Sen. Flanders, (R) Vt., today forecast further declines in the cost of most foods and predicted the need for price curbs will vanish by the time Congress meets in January.

Flanders, a member of the joint economic committee which last Spring advocated steps to control rising food costs, said prices now are falling as fast as is "safe."

The senator declared that too steep a plunge in prices might touch off deflation. He added: "It looks like prices are softening about as fast and about as far as it is safe for them to do so."

The Vermont economy expert, who was alarmed last Spring at the price situation his subcommittee found in a survey of eastern cities, now believes the price of most foods, with the major exception of beef, will drop further.

Flanders declared that too sharp a price fall might be dangerous and said:

"IT IS A whole lot easier to stop inflation than to stop an ensuing deflation."

The New England senator said he is satisfied now that the 80th Congress "did about all it was safe to do" on curbing prices. He said:

"I have been afraid of too much government action."

The Vermont Republican said he does not expect the beef shortage to be curbed—at least while the nation's buying power is strong, because cattle production is limited by America's semi-arid range lands of the west.

But hog production, he said, can be increased readily and speedily to provide plenty of pork as a substitute.

Flanders joined the chairman of the congressional economic committee, Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, in dashing hopes for further tax reductions. Taft said last week that further decreases appeared unlikely. Flanders said:

"I don't see any change for tax cuts next year."

Warren Wants United Front

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 13—Gov. Earl Warren, of California, declares he "would rather lose the election than embitter or divide the American people."

The Republican vice presidential candidate told a train-side crowd of several hundred Cheyenne residents yesterday that if everybody in America votes in November, "whatever the result is, it will be good for the country."

Warren said that the major question in any campaign is which party is better able to lead the country at this moment. He added that the present national administration is "disorganized and disintegrating."

On Sunday, Mrs. Seymour Millar, who has been receiving treatment at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, returned to her home. Mrs. Millar is much improved.

Charles Hess is receiving treatment for a pancreatic disorder in Mercy hospital, where he was removed Sunday.

Dr. C. W. Higley, Dayton, was a Sunday guest of his mother, Mrs. C. A. Higley.

Salvation Army Blocking Estate

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 13—The Michigan supreme court will hear the appeal of the Salvation Army for a share in the $4,000,000 estate of the late hotel magnate, Earle R. Milner.

The court granted a "stay and an appeal" providing division of the estate among the dozen heirs can be held up until the Salvation Army's case is heard.

George E. Brand, attorney for the charity organization, maintains a will which left everything to the Salvation Army except $15,000 bequeathed to two children, was "lost, stolen or destroyed."

On this day, we again dedicate ourselves to the task of supplying you with more and better oil products.

As JOBBERS, we've had big jobs to do in the past, but last winter topped them all! You and your neighbors asked for more oil ever produced than ever before—and we were kept mighty busy trying to keep you supplied. We weren't the only company, either...

In all, over 34,000 individual oil companies of all sizes worked night and day to see that the oil produced—the most oil ever produced—got through to you wherever you lived. Fuels and lubricants for your cars and trucks... fuel oil to heat your homes and schools... gasoline and oil for your farm machinery—all were delivered in record-breaking quantities. Almost 250 million gallons of oil products each and every day!

Ex-Rome Chief To Tell All

ROME, Oct. 13—Italian Ex-Marshall Rodolfo Graziani, one-time viceroy of Ethiopia, promised sensational revelations today at his trial on charges of collaborating with the Germans. The 66-year-old soldier said he will reveal new facts about Italy's conduct of the war and about conditions in the Italian high command. He denounced bitterly Marshal Pietro Badoglio, who negotiated Italy's surrender to the Allies in 1943, charging that Badoglio constantly intrigued against him and undermined his position.

SECOND GUESSING AIRED

Most Fans Failed To Rip Losing Series Manager

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—The World Series was played so fast and amidst such scuffling that few fans have had a chance to engage in that wonderful American pastime of second guessing the losing manager.

Because Billy Southworth, manager of the beaten Boston Braves, is such a nice guy and makes so few mistakes—if any—he should be apart.

It should be forgotten he won the National League pennant with a second rate ball club held together in several instances by baling wire and adhesive tape.

The gallantry of these young men and old ones, who are mainly the unwanted castoffs of other clubs, hobbling so close to the world championship also should be forgotten. They were well paid for it.

Here is what fans want to know:

In the ninth inning of the sixth and final game, with the score 4 to 3 in favor of Cleveland and with Connie Ryan on first running for Eddie Stanky and none out, why did Southworth send Sissy Sisti in to bat for Warren Spahn?

SISTI HADN'T looked at a pitch since Oct. 3 and during the season had not been a particularly spectacular bunter. Spahn was pitching a good relief game and is accounted a good bunter. If Sisti had managed to advance Ryan and the score had been tied, Southworth would have to call on another pitcher—etc.

The boy from Buffalo, in attempting to bunt, cut under the ball, flipped up a spinning little fly which buzzed a few feet in front of the plate. Catcher Jim Hegan plucked it out of the air and fired to first base for a double play that killed the budding rally.

If Sisti had come through, there would be no room for second guessing.

To begin with Gene Bearden, the Cleveland pitcher, is a left-hander. So is Spahn. The percentage therefore was in putting a right-hander—Sisti—in to bunt.

Furthermore, Ryan acted somewhat like a man enjoying a sleepwalk in assuming that Sisti positively would bunt the ball, with the result that Ryan was nailed dead.

Sisti sat in front of his locker weeping for a time, then went in and told Southworth he was sorry for the terrible letdown. He said:

"I don't deserve to be with this club."

Southworth put his arm around Sisti and replied:

"YOU DIDN'T let me down; you pulled me through when I needed you, when you played so wonderfully well during all that time while Stanky was out with a broken foot. Forget about it."

Southworth later said that he sent Sisti up there to bunt because he is the best bunter in the league.

"Furthermore," Southworth added, "he is one of the fastest men in the league—and had a chance to become the winning run if he had managed to get off a good bunt. He might have beat it out."

Brownies Prep For 3 Tough Battles Ahead

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13—The Cleveland Browns prepared today for the toughest part so far of their All-America Conference schedule.

On the next three Sunday afternoons, the Browns will entertain in order the Buffalo Bills, New York Yankees and Baltimore Colts—all three of whom are fighting it out for the eastern division title.

The Bills, currently in second place in the east, come to town first, and although the Browns already have won two over them, are expected to provide rough competition once more.

The Browns took the Bills easily in an exhibition game but found the going tougher last month in Buffalo.

The Bills are expected to be especially fired for this game because of their desire to whip the defending champs and also because of a team shakeup.

Coach Red Dawson yesterday fired two of his players and demoted George Ratterman, sensational rookie quarterback of 1947.

Following the eastern invasion, the Browns tangle with their western division foes, San Francisco and Los Angeles, in games which probably will decide the 1948 champion.

Indians Tired After Big Fete

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13—The Cleveland Indians—tired and exhausted after the city's most gigantic homecoming celebration—began to depart today for their homes throughout the nation.

Still left behind, however, was the job of cleaning up the city following the spectacular reception tendered the 1948 world champions on their return from Boston yesterday.

Police estimated that between 200,000 and 500,000 persons hailed the Tribesmen as they paraded five miles down the city's main thoroughfare in open cars yesterday.

Harvey Awaits Favorite Son

HARVEY, Ill., Oct. 13—Everything's set in Harvey to welcome home the town's first citizen-manager-shortstop, Lou Boudreau of the World Champion Cleveland Indians.

Harry W. Zahler, who is in charge of arrangements for the celebration, said today that "most of Harvey" will turn out when Boudreau returns from Cleveland.

Zahler said that the real celebration is scheduled for Oct. 23. He said that Club President Bill Veck and Hank Greenberg, the Indians' vice-president, have agreed to be present.

Turn those rainy days into gladsome days—through consistent savings. Some of our friends tell us the freedom from worry is in itself worthwhile... but they like those generous dividends too! Start to save this week.

Barons Cop Opener, Keep Record Intact

By International News Service
The Cleveland Barons undefeated string still was alive today—and going strong.

The American Hockey League champs, who wound up the 1947 season with a total of 27 straight games without defeat, started the 1948 season on the right foot last night by routing Washington, 5-2, in their loop-opener in Washington.

Pete Leswick and Fred Thurier each tallied twice as the Barons smothered the Lions in the final two periods.

Ab Demarco's opening period goal gave Cleveland a 1-1 tie at the first intermission, but Thurier and Leswick each scored once in the second and third periods to finish off the Lions.

In other openers last night, St. Louis trimmed Buffalo, 4-0, on St. Louis ice, and Pittsburgh dropped a 4-2 defeat to the Indians in Springfield.

Tonight Cleveland travels to Hershey, Springfield to Philadelphia, St. Louis to Pittsburgh and New Haven to Providence.

Fesler Rubbing Rough Edges In Buck Sessions

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13—Ohio State's Bucks were getting a good polish job today in preparation for Saturday's second Western Conference game of the year with Indiana.

Coach Wes Fesler, who decreed it was the Bucks' own misdeeds that cost them a defeat at the hands of Iowa last week, began yesterday to work on those rough edges.

The Bucks will take a 36-man squad to Indiana, leaving Friday morning on their first road jaunt of the season.

Fesler announced that four of his crimples—Tackles Bill Trautwein and Jack Jennings, Guard Ray DiPiero and Right Halfback Mike Cannavino—will be ready for the Indiana contest.

Alex Verdova, the Bucks' nominal No. 1 right half, continued feeling poorly, however, and Quarterback Pete Perini and Tackle Jack Wilson were listed as "doubtful." Perini's injuries, incurred against Iowa didn't prevent him from punting at top form in yesterday's drill.

Ed Lopat, Vic Raschi, Frank Shea and Joe Page are big-time pitchers.

Stengel Set For 'Look' At Yankees

New Pilot Plans No Quick Cuts

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—Casey Stengel, new pilot of the baseball Yankees, said today he is going to "look over his flock" before making any changes.

Stengel, who signed a two-year contract yesterday to manage the New York American League baseball team, disclosed, however, that some changes will be made but perhaps not "until Fall."

The 57-year-old veteran of the diamond wars is expected to announce new coaching appointees before leaving New York within the next couple of days.

Red Corriden, who left Brooklyn with Larry MacPhail and Charlie Dressen, are among those likely slated for the skids. Dressen, whose contract still has a year to run, was on hand in President Topping's office when Stengel signed his contract.

SEVERAL nominees for the expected coaching vacancy are such former big-league luminaries as Jim Turner, Al Simmons and George Kelly.

Stengel's coaching problems are minor. His headache will be selecting the correct proportion of veterans and fledglings and fit them into a pennant machine.

Only Shortstop Phil Rizzuto is varsity material in the infield.

First, second, and third base have no accomplished regulars unless Tommy Henrich is considered a first baseman.

The Yankee outfield combination featuring Henrich, Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller or Johnny Lindell still is potent. All but DiMag are 33, and the "Clipper" is 34. Few champion outfielders feature this age ratio.

The catching is in good hands especially with Yogi Berra in a possible outfield berth. The pitching—on paper—looks fine if several moundmen will remember to take a look at the training rules.

Ed Lopat, Vic Raschi, Frank Shea and Joe Page are big-time pitchers.

Most Fans Failed To Rip 'Losing Series Manager'

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The World Series was played so fast and amidst such scuffling that few fans have had a chance to engage in that wonderful American pastime of second guessing the losing manager.

Because Billy Southworth, manager of the beaten Boston Braves, is such a nice guy and makes so few mistakes—if any—he should be apart.

It should be forgotten he won the National League pennant with a second rate ball club held together in several instances by baling wire and adhesive tape. The gallantry of these young men and old ones, who are mainly the unwanted castoffs of other clubs, hobbling so close to the world championship also should be forgotten. They were well paid for it.

Here is what fans want to know:

In the ninth inning of the sixth and final game, with the score 4 to 3 in favor of Cleveland and with Connie Ryan on first running for Eddie Stanky and none out, why did Southworth send Sissy Sisti in to bat for Warren Spahn?

SISTI HADN'T looked at a pitch since Oct. 3 and during the season had not been a particularly spectacular bunter. Spahn was pitching a good relief game and is accounted a good bunter. "Furthermore," Southworth added, "he is one of the fastest men in the league—and had a chance to become the winning run if he had managed to get off a good bunt. He might have beat it out."

Brownies Draw 128,570 Fans

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—The Cleveland Browns have managed to hold their own in the attendance department during their first three home games, despite the World Series.

In contests with Los Angeles, Chicago, and Brooklyn, the All-America Football Conference champs have played to a total of 128,570 fans as compared to 128,669 who saw games involving the same clubs in 1947.

On the road, the Browns have attracted 88,187 fans in Buffalo, Chicago and Baltimore as compared to 82,191 who saw the Browns in those three cities last year.

Bears Leading NFL In Power

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—Chicago's undefeated Bears are leading the National Football League in four departments.

League statistics show the Bears out in front in punting average, touchdowns, total points, and percentage of passes completed.

The Washington Redskins, however, still top the circuit in yards gained by passing, with 714, followed by Los Angeles with 704 yards.

On the defensive side, the Redskins have allowed the smallest number of points, 34.

Barons Cop Opener, Keep Record Intact

By International News Service

The Cleveland Barons undefeated string still was alive today—and going strong. The American Hockey League champs, who wound up the 1947 season with a total of 27 straight games without defeat, started the 1948 season on the right foot last night by routing Washington, 5-2, in their loop-opener in Washington.

Pete Leswick and Fred Thurier each tallied twice as the Barons smothered the Lions in the final two periods.

Ab Demarco's opening period goal gave Cleveland a 1-1 tie at the first intermission, but Thurier and Leswick each scored once in the second and third periods to finish off the Lions.

In other openers last night, St. Louis trimmed Buffalo, 4-0, on St. Louis ice, and Pittsburgh dropped a 4-2 defeat to the Indians in Springfield.

Tonight Cleveland travels to Hershey, Springfield to Philadelphia, St. Louis to Pittsburgh and New Haven to Providence.

Fesler Rubbing Rough Edges In Buck Sessions

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—Ohio State's Bucks were getting a good polish job today in preparation for Saturday's second Western Conference game of the year with Indiana.

Coach Wes Fesler, who decreed it was the Bucks' own misdeeds that cost them a defeat at the hands of Iowa last week, began yesterday to work on those rough edges.

The Bucks will take a 36-man squad to Indiana, leaving Friday morning on their first road jaunt of the season.

Fesler announced that four of his crumples—Tackles Bill Trautwein and Jack Jennings, Guard Ray Dipierro and Right Halfback Mike Cannavino—will be ready for the Indiana contest.

DiMag Slated For Operation

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee outfielder, is slated to enter Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, soon for the removal of a bone spur in his right heel.

The Yankee Clipper plans a pheasant hunt at Huron, S. D., and an exhibition game next week before entering the hospital. DiMaggio underwent a similar operation on his left heel a year ago.

Docusen KO's Mario Trigo

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—Maxie Docusen, of New Orleans, technically kayoed Mario Trigo of Los Angeles in the seventh round before a sellout crowd in Olympic Auditorium last night.

Docusen never let down throughout the setto. The fight was stopped because of mouth and nose cuts suffered by Trigo. It was the 44th straight win for Docusen.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The Wildcat-Wolverine football game at Ann Arbor, Mich., promises to take on the aspects of an air show Saturday when Northwestern's Don Burson and Michigan's Chuck Ortman start throwing the ball.

Latest statistics from Western Conference headquarters today showed Burson leading the Big Nine in passing and Ortman, though rated fourth, the owner of a fabulous .833 completion percentage.

Raymond Turner Sworn In As Boy Scout Executive

Raymond Turner officially was installed as Pickaway District Scout field executive at a meeting of scout heads in Trinity Lutheran Church.

Turner, who has a background of 20 years in Scout work, and who recently held a similar post in the Mansfield district, was introduced by Richard Morris, Pickaway district chairman.

Morris explained the duties of the post to the new field executive, duties which are limited to training adult scouters in the district as to how to organize and run Scout units.

The new field executive is to have little contact with the Boy Scouts themselves.

Turner replaces Harvey Frazer Jr., who recently resigned the local post to resume studies at Ohio State university.

FOLLOWING introductions, plans for the District Board of Review, scheduled for Oct. 25, and for the Court of Honor, due Nov. 23, were discussed, and reports of the latest membership drive were delivered.

Morris said that as of Tuesday the membership drive had netted 50 percent of the intended goal, and that by Dec. 31, deadline, complete recruitment expectations should be completed.

Plans for Pumpkin Show Boy Scout chores were formulated. They include messenger service for officials by the Scouts as well as assisting in parades.

The Scouts are to enter a float in the Merchant's Parade Friday night of Pumpkin Show Week as well as to provide a unit to accompany it.

Turner, aided by G. S. Bolin, who held the field executive post temporarily, conducted the first of a series of scouter training courses following the meeting.

Next training course is to be held in Trinity Lutheran Church at 8 p. m. Monday.

HARRIED HOUSEWIVES doing their best to make ends meet burst into lusty cheers in New York City as meat prices take a perceptible nosedive, as much as 18 cents a pound on some items. Explanations for the first break in meat prices in nearly two years range from fact that corn is plentiful to fact that customers have been scarce. Supreme Solons Ponder 'Noise'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—The supreme court may be heading today toward another of its famous five-to-four splits—on the issue of a citizen's right to peace and quiet unmarred by a radio sound truck.

The case before the court involves a Trenton, N. J., anti-noise ordinance. Its decision may again balance the Constitution's guarantees of free speech against the physical "well being" of the prospective sound truck hearers.

It is the second time that the problem of radio amplifiers has been before the high tribunal. In the first instance, the justices took sides vehemently on whether the devices annoy the citizenry.

A majority finally voted in favor of the sound truck in a case decided last term concerning a Lockport, N. Y., ordinance.

More than half the children who are slow in learning to read have visual problems, says the American Optometric Association.

Widow Fails Identify Thugs

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13—Three men held in connection with the Cleveland murder of Sam Monachino were free today after the slain man's widow, an eyewitness of the shooting, failed to identify photographs of them.

Detective David E. Kerr of the homicide squad was notified by long distance telephone yesterday that Monachino's widow viewed the photos in a hospital in Nashville, Tenn., where she is awaiting the birth of a child.

Mac OKs Flying Of 'Meat Ball'

TOKYO, Oct. 13—For the first time in three years, Japan's national flag again flies daily on three Tokyo buildings.

By authorization of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the flag is hoisted every day at the diet (parliament), the supreme court, and the imperial palace.

At other places, however, it may be flown only on nine national holidays.
